SOVIET ENVOY DEAF TO KOO'S PLEA TO TAKE TROOPS AWAY

Joffe Gives Presence Of Czarist Plotters As Excuse

MEET DOUBTFUL

Proposed Conference Is Likely To Be "Postponed"

(Special To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 16.—Replying to the request of Dr. Wellington Koo that Russia evacuate Mongolia as evidence of good faith before the opening of the Sino-Russian conference, M. Joffe, the Soviet representative, sent a blunt note to the foreign office positively refusing the request.

The Joffe note gave as a reason for the Soviet attitude that "Czarist Russians have a haven in Manchuria, where they hatch plots and plan hostile action toward Siberia."

It is generally felt here that this action on the part of Joffe will have the effect of causing an indefinite postponement of the proposed conference.

M. Joffe's attitude on the point raised by Dr. Koo is hard to understand, inasmuch as the Russians have continually complained that the Japanese occupation of the island of Sakhalin as a guarantee against a repetition of the Nikolaievsk massacre (in which the Russians murdered 700 Japanese citizens) constituted a stumbling block in the way of a Russo-Japanese understanding.

It was this identical contention, i.e. get out of our country and then we will talk business with you, on the part of the Russian delegation, led by the same M. Joffe, that broke up the Changchun conference. The Russians told the Japanese repeatedly that Japanese evacuation of Russian territory must be the starting place in any effort of the two nations to reach an understanding.

Now comes Dr. Koo with the same request to the same Joffe. "Take your soldiers out of our country," says Dr. Koo, "and then we will talk business with you."

Note Joffe's reply to this petition: "On account of the presence of Czarist plotters in Mongolia we cannot accede to your request."

PREMIER'S GIBES STALE, FAMILIAR, SAYS GLADSTONE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—Lord Gladstone in a letter to the press replying to Mr. Lloyd George's attack says that the world was waiting for a pronouncement of grave public events, yet the premier devoted some minutes to demolishing the writer by a stale and familiar gibe. He declares that Mr. Lloyd George cannot escape responsibility for the debacle in the Near East, which was the invitable result of the Government's policy.

Centuars Of Mongolia

A COLORFUL group of Mongolian horsemen and Mongolian belles. All Mongolians are born, live and die in the saddle—centuars of the desert. The two are head-dress. The one in the horsewomen in the foreground are back, at the right, with plain married, as is seen by their elabor- locks, is still eligible.

A Romantic Trek From The Land of The Midnight Sun Through The Heart Of Asia, The Fantastic Land of Mongolia, And Mysterious Thibet To Shanghai.

VIII—A MONGOLIAN CIRCUS

By Larry Lehrbas

Kobdo, drab and dreary as it is to the uninitiated, is the colorful center of desert life for the Mongolian horsemen, shaggy headed-shepherders and their mannish wives and daughters from the surrounding horizonless miles. Serge and his companions walked about its two streets watching caravans preparing for the long trail to the inner spaces or to Urga far away, amused at the strange, picturesque dress of the Mongolians who trotted briskly about on their ponies—for in Mongolia one never walks—and learned something of the interesting history of the desert capital from the handful of foreigners who dwell there.

Among their first calls was a visit to the Russian Consulate and a long heart-to-heart talk with M. Hionin, the Russian Consul. An official of the old regime who had not, as yet, been forced out by the Reds, H. Hionin listened to their story of their long trek across Bolshevist Russia and Western Siberia with kindly interest. There was, however, nothing he could do for them, and after mulling over the situation for several days they at last decided to follow out a plan he suggested and cut through Mongolia to China. They were actually between the, to them, Soviet Devil and the Deep Sea. The Deep Sea was hundreds of miles away across a country of unknown adventures and possible privations. It was, however, their only choice, for they could not turn back into Russia after the blood that had been spilled at the Mongolian border.

M. Hionin assisted them in every possible way and when they went on ten days later they carried in packs on an extra pony 45 bricks of dirty looking black tea—a gift from the Consul. They went on into Mongolia as part of a greatly reduced calvacade because 30 of the students remained in Kobdo to act as a base party for radiating expeditions into various parts of the interior, and 18, including Serge, Andre and Mure, led by Prof. Saeojnikov, pressed on to the South.

A FOREIGN CARAVAN

Just out of Kobdo the calvacade of horsemen passed the first—and only—caravan in which there were foreigners that they were to meet across the hundreds of miles of Mongolian country. Ahead of them they heard the far off tinkling of camel bells, saw a cloud of dust—and then a camel, rolling from side to side with the peculiar gait of the ships of the desert crossed the horizon. Behind the lead camel came two dozen others, ridden by the camel-drivers or heavily loaded with packs. Despite the fact that the caravan passed within a few hundred yards of the calvacade neither stopped and no sign was passed between them. The horses trotted briskly along the trail—the camels plodded on with swinging heads. It was not until they reached the banks of the Urungu river that the men of the calvacade learned that the caravan they passed numbered two foreigners among its members. The underground wireless of the desert identified the caravan as an Anderson, Meyer and

THOMAS LAWSON, STOCK PLUNGER, HAS COLLAPSE

American Financier, Father Of Mrs. Edwards, Missing For Time

Thomas W. Lawson, widely known American financier and father of Mrs. B. A. Edwards, formerly of Shanghai, caused a sensation in American financial circles when he disappeared from his home on October 2 and was missing for two days following the offering of his private estate "Dreamwold" on the auction block to make up losses he sustained in the stock market. The news reached Shanghai yesterday.

Mr. Lawson was reported safe but suffering from a nervous breakdown two days later at Southwest Harbor, Maine. Mr. Lawson was one of the most widely known American financiers, having made and lost several fortunes. At the present time his fortunes are at low ebb.

He has been president of the Bay State Gas Company of Delaware, the Thomas W. Lawson Company, the Trinity Copper Company, and the First National Copper Company. He was also the author of a series of magazine articles called "Frenzied Finance" which created a sensation in 1905. His home has been at Dreamwold, Egypt, near Boston, Massachusetts.

Mrs. Edwards was the wife of Mr. B. A. Edwards, who before his death a short time ago was with Anderson, Meyer and Company. They lived at 548 Rue Ratard before Mrs. Edwards returned to America to join her father a few months ago.

Washington, Oct. 16.—President Harding today made public a letter he had written to Congressman Mondell of Wyoming, the Republican leader in the House, in which he expressed the belief that in view of the accomplishments of the sixty-sixth and sixty-seventh congresses the members of those sessions would be returned to Washington by the American people.

APPEAL DENIED IN CASE AGAINST M'GOMERY WARD

Judgment Of $500 Stands In Favor Of Former Employe Of Mail Order Concern

Appeal to the United States Court for China from a judgment that was rendered by Mr. F. J. Schuhl when he was United States Commissioner awarding the sum of $500 and costs to Mrs. Nellie Ritchie in a suit she filed against Montgomery Ward and Company is denied in a decision that was handed down yesterday by Judge Lobingier.

In the action Mrs. Ritchie was represented by Mr. H. D. Rodger and the defendant was represented by Mr. P. Faison. As basis for her suit Mrs. Ritchie alleged that after a period of six months service in the Shanghai office of Montgomery, Ward and Company she was wrongfully dismissed at five minutes notice on November 5 of last year. She asked damages amounting to two months salary and at the conclusion of the hearing decision was given on January 13 last awarding her $500.

Notice of appeal then was filed by the defendant and the ruling given yesterday sustains a motion that was made by Mrs. Ritchie's counsel to dismiss the appeal. Judge Lobingier's ruling on the motion is as follows:

SYLLABUS

(By the Court)

1. Appeals from the U. S. Commissioner as "Ex Officio Judge, Consular Court, District, Shanghai" are governed by the rules heretofore prevailing in reference to said Court.

2. Id: The requirement that the appellant "set forth his reasons," etc., is mandatory and is not complied with by merely reciting that "This appeal is taken on questions of both law and fact."

Messrs. Rodger and Haskell by Mr. Rodger for the motion.

Messrs. Williams, Franklin and Faison by Mr. Faison, contra.

This is a motion to dismiss an attempted appeal from a judgment rendered by the "U. S. Commissioner and Ex-Officio Judge, Consular Court, District of Shanghai." The only paper filed after the rendition of the judgment was a "Notice of Appeal" which reads as follows:

"Comes now the defendant in the above entitled action, by his attorney, and respectfully appeals to the United States Court for China for the decision rendered herein on January 13, 1922, in favor of plaintiff and against the defendant. This appeal is taken on questions of both law and fact."

But according to the Court Regulations

"Within five days after judgment, the appellant must set forth his reasons by petition filed with the consul, which shall be transmitted as soon as may be to the minister, with a copy of docket entries and of all papers in the case."

For "consul" and "minister" we must now substitute respectively "Commissioner" and "United States Court" and as so modified the provision has already been held mandatory by this Court. But it will be seen that the paper above quoted is not a compliance therewith. Merely reciting that "this appeal is taken on questions of both law

Jutland Battle Veteran Gives Graphic Account Of Historic Engagement

Lieut. King-Hall Delivers Highly Interesting And Instructive Lecture To Big Audience

A great many people in Shanghai—the number, to be exact, who can be crowded into the Olympic Theater—are going about today with a very much clearer conception of the Battle of Jutland, its significance, intricacies and scope, and are carrying with them likewise, the recollection of two very pleasing hours of discourse as a result of the lecture delivered last evening by Lieut. S. King-Hall, R.N., who went through the big engagement and who is at present here on H.M.S Durban.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Navy League, the proceeds to go to naval organisation funds in China, and Mr. Sidney Barton, British Consul-General introduced the speaker, mentioning the interesting fact that Lieut. King-Hall is the son of Captain King-Hall, who raised the British flag at Weihaiwei twenty-four years ago.

Lieut. King-Hall is a graphic speaker, with a grasp of the value of humorous touches and despite the formidable first appearance of a series of battle charts, which were subsequently supplemented by a remarkable collection of battle photographs, he kept the discourse well clear of too technical channels and made the lecture a genuinely human, as well as highly instructive, narrative.

With the charts and mappings of the fleet movements, which charts he demonstrated were not such inexplicable tangles as they might first seem, the speaker first laid down a firm groundwork for his later recounting of the battle's progress. Beginning with the first movements of the British fleets from Scapa Flow and the South after word had been received that the Germans had put to sea he traced the maneuvers of the opposing forces through the day and night engagements until the enemy, aided by luck and the fog, cut across the rear of the British warships and escaped to the port from which they had been cut off.

Contact with the German fleet, the speaker said, was due to delay in reading signals by one of the scouting British craft, the Galatea, which proceeded on southward after the rest of her squadron had turned about and which came upon a German destroyer searching a merchantman. A Battle Cruiser action followed, proceeding Southward, until the leading British ships, none of major calibre, found that they were running square into the jaws of the Northward sailing German grand fleet. The British ships promptly put about and headed North to meet the British Grand Fleet. The major engagement began late in the day, but when darkness fell the British fleet, through brilliant maneuvering had got between the Germans and the Danish coast, thus cutting them off from their Heligoland base. With the Germans on the "outside" it was decided by Admiral Jellicoe to proceed straight Southward with his fleet, for it seemed impossible that the German could cross their line and regain the coast.

For the movement which they executed Lieut. King-Hall paid sincere tribute to the daring and efficiency of the enemy commanders. With a channel of warships seventy miles in width to cross the Germans, with darkness to aid them, decided to move in a direct line for Heligoland Bight. In their movement they came within a few miles of the rear of the British fleet, incurring the night engagement with the second light cruiser squadron where Lieut. King-Hall was located, which was mistaken for a minor action. Lieut. King-Hall's squadron was heavily engaged, the flagship, on which he was, being especially badly battered. It took the concentrated fire of four German ships and would undoubtedly have been blown up had not the torpedo officer scored a direct hit on one of the enemy vessels, sinking it and turning off the attack.

In the morning it would have been possible to have detected the Germans' move and there would still have been time to block them off from port had it not been for the fog, which cut visibility down to little more than two miles.

Following the showing of the maps illustrating the various phases of progress in the battle, Lieut. King-Hall told in graphic style of the fight itself, with photographs to illustrate the major incidents. Truly remarkable pictures showed the blowing up of the Queen Mary and the Invincible, the rain of shells about the other

Wakes From Bootleg Spree To Find His Glands Were Stolen

(China Press Service)

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The perils of prohibition took a new turn here today with the arrest of several persons on a charge of mayhem in connection with gland stealing operations.

The police charge that one Joseph Wozniak was robbed of his glands while drunk on bootleg whiskey, and that a similar operation was performed upon Henry Johnson, an electrician, while he was in a hospital for what he thought was to be an entirely different operation.

The police are said to have the name of at least one physician who may be arrested later in connection with these charges. Gland transferring operations have been much discussed here since the recent notoriety in connection with the report that an aged and well known Chicago millionaire had paid a husky youth a large sum of money for his glands.

CONFERENCE ON NEAR EAST TENTATIVELY SET FOR NOV. 6

HARINGTON FIRM

Denies Turkish Allegation Of Wholesale Burnings

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—Sir Charles Harington, addressing press men here yesterday, said that time was not being wasted to give effect to the Mudania Convention. Both sides were acting in accordance with the contract and it was hoped that the difficult and delicate task would be carried out without incident. The Nationalists had alleged that 40 villages in East Thrace had been destroyed but the daily Allied reconnaisances had not observed any trace of burnings. He offered to allow the Nationalist representative to make a daily flight in a British aeroplane in order that he might be convinced of the falsity of the idea. Sir Charles Harington added that nobody could charge the British with not having done their best for peace with Turkey.

Paris, Oct. 17.—M. Franklin Bouillon, speaking to newspaper correspondents, urged that time should not be lost in summoning the Near East conference, which should be conducted in a spirit of peace and not of war. A poisonous atmosphere of distrust, M. Bouillon said would be fatal.

November 6 is mentioned as the date of the opening of the conference, the venue of which, however, has not yet been settled.

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Oct. 16.—The vastness of the Near Eastern refugee problem is emphasised in a telegram from Dr. Nansen from Constantinople to the Secretariat-General of the League of Nations in which he says that 750,000 refugees from Asia Minor are distributed through Greece, Thrace and the islands, mostly women and children.

Their condition is disastrous as they have no money, clothing, shelter or food.

The Government and relief organisations are valiantly attempting to cope with the most urgent necessities but organisation of relief on a much vaster scale is essential in order to avert a catastrophe.

He urgently appeals to the public for funds.

(China Press Service)

Geneva, Oct. 16.—It is reported that the plague and other severe sicknesses are ravaging Greek fugitives in Asia Minor. Acting President Nansen of the League of Nations has sought an interview with Kemal Pasha regarding relief measures for fugitives in the Bosphorous.

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Bishop Cannon in a message urges that the United States should be represented at the Near East Conference in order to protect the rights of Americans, secure a national home for the Armenians and to obtain the protection of property and minorities in Turkey.

Paris, Oct. 16.—The Matin's reference to the testimony of General Sir Charles Harington to the French cooperation relates to a letter from Sir Charles Harington to General Pelle expressing his gratitude at the loyal support of General Charpy during the Mudania Conference.

Paris, October 16.—In a letter to the London Time Mr. Montagu, the former Secretary of State for India, expressed satisfaction at the Mudania agreement.

London, Oct. 16.—Dr. Rechad Bey on the eve of his departure for Angora told the Times that he sincerely regretted that the tone of the speech delivered by Lloyd George was not more conciliatory and less bellicose.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

London, Oct. 16.—The British government denies that any note has been sent to Italy regarding the disposition of the Deodecanese islands, or that Italy and Greece have found a common ground on which to base discussions relative to the future ownership of the Deodecanese.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Ferid Bey, interviewed by the Constantinople correspondent of the Temps emphatically denies the statement made recently by Premier Lloyd-George that 1,500,000 Armenians were massacred by the Turks; Ferid Bey adds that the figures are admittedly false. The total Armenian population living in territory under Turkish rule does not reach anything like that figure.

He greatly deprecates the various outbreaks of Turkish troops but issues a denial that a supposed massacre of 500,000 Greeks occurred.

Ferid Bey recalls the depredations and ravages committed by the Greek armies in Anatolia and concludes by saying:

"Peace was maintained owing to the most laudable intervention of the French, whose sincere efforts averted a conflagration in the Near East."

Paris, Oct. 16.—Deputy Franklin Boullion who returned to Paris on Monday morning immediately conferred with Premier Poincare and submitted his report on the Near East situation.

Following his conference M. Boullion told newspapermen that the cessation of Turkish troop movements was due entirely to the political cleverness of Mustapha Kemal who wished to show Europe that his desire for peace was real, and also how greatly he appreciated the concessions obtained through French intervention.

Kemal realised that at that time any show of force in such a delicate situation would have materially retarded armistice negotiations, said M. Boullion.

(China Press Service)

London, Oct. 16.—According to information received here France and Russia are vieing with each other to obtain the upper hand in the forthcoming peace conference at Angora.

Russia insists upon being admitted to the peace conference with equal rights while France demands that Russia only be allowed to explain her future stand on the Dardanelles question.

The British Government sides with France in her contentions against Russian participation with full rights at the conference inasmuch as Russia took no active part in the recent Greek-Turk hostilities which will be settled for all time by the Angora treaty of peace.

and fact" appellant does not "set forth his reasons."

The case cited by appellant contains nothing inconsistent with the above. The court was not there dealing with any question relating to appeals. Moreover the case was decided before the enactment of the statute, transferring the functions of the Consular Court for the District of Shanghai to the U. S. Commissioner. In acting as judge of said Court the Commissioner is necessarily subject to the rules of procedure theretofore obtaining.

The motion to dismiss must accordingly be sustained.

KAO, TRANSPORT CHIEF, OPPOSED TO RAIL CONTROL

Minister Does Not Think Powers Should Take Over Roads

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 16.—Interviewed today by Japanese press representatives, Mr. Kao En-hung, Minister of Communications, made the following statement:

The wholesale resignation of Dr. C. H. Wang's Cabinet means nothing. Inasmuch as the resignations were rejected by the President yesterday, it is likely that the status quo of the Cabinet will be maintained, and that the Bill for the approval of the Premier will not be submitted to Parliament pending the enactment of the Constitution.

The rumor that a $30,000,000 loan on the Peking-Hankow, the Peking-Suiyuan and the Tientsin-Pukow Railways has been concluded is without foundation. As for the Fukien affair, it has already been decided to dismiss

KAO EN-HUNG

General Li Hou-chi, to abolish the Tuchunate of Fukien after the example of Anhui and Kiangsi and to appoint Admiral Sah Chen-ping as the Civil Governor as well as the Tupan of military affairs of Fukien.

In view of the fact Hsu Shu-cheng (Little Hsu) formerly failed even with 100,000 soldiers and sufficient amount of military funds at his disposal, it is unlikely that he will come out victorious this time, considering that he has no base of operation, nor sufficient military funds, having only 2,000 soldiers under his command.

With regard to the argument that railways in China be put under joint control of the Powers, I want to express my strong opposition to it, for the reason that railways have a vital concern with the domain of China, though I would not consider it unreasonable if Customs dues and the salt gabelle were to be placed in the hands of foreigners.

Company expedition—in a hazy way. That's all they knew.

(The caravan passed by the horsemen may have been the Andrews exploring expedition sent out under the auspices of Asia Magazine. It is thought that at least a part of the Andrews expedition passed in the vicinity of Kobdo in July and an Andersen, Meyer and Company man acted as guide through part of Mongolia. Inquiry at the local offices of Andersen, Meyer and Company revealed that they had no expedition in Mongolia.)

From the banks of the Urungu river, where they camped for a night's rest the three cadets were forced to secure their own horses as the three they rode were stampeded during the night. They had been tethered to grace during the night on the banks of the Urungu and sometime during the night broke their tethers and returned to their wild, nomad horse life. Horses, however, were plentiful, and for three bricks of black tea and a half carcass of mutton the three were able to secure nasty, still half-wild little Mongolian ponies for the ride to the next stage. The pony owner accompanied the expedition on as far as Guencher, the first important stop out from Kobdo.

A DESERT PAGEANT

Riding into Guencher the horsemen found it bustling with excitement. The Governor of Mongolia was there on an official visit! Village officials in picturesque garb trotted about before the onlooking populace like strutting stage-heroes before the footlights making the final arrangements for a great celebration to be given all through the afternoon in honor of the high official. Shepherders, told of the approaching festival by Paul Reveres' several days previous, had ridden in one of their wild broncs for hundreds of miles around presenting a colorful, kaleidescopic spectacle as they weaved in and out among their tribal neighbors all dressed in their "glad rags."

Anxious to see the pageant the members of the calvacade planned to camp in Guencher at least until the next day, ate a hasty mid-day meal of mutton, the last of their sakari, the toasted crust cubes they had stocked up with in the Altai's, and tea, and then joined the milling mob of horsemen riding toward the carnival grounds just outside the village.

A brilliant scene of vivid color greeted them. Several tents had been erected to shield the Governor and members of his suite from the boiling rays of the sun—for it was July, and July on the Mongolian desert is a month of intense, burning, searing heat. From the tents floated gay-colored banners and in their shade sat the Governor and his staff, all dressed in gorgeous, brilliant robes for the occasion.

About the open air ampitheater were grouped dozens of Mongolian bannermen with their chiefs, eagerly awaiting the opening of the desert circus. Lamas in large numbers wove back and forth through the crowd looking like perambulating geraniums in their showy red garb. Desert belles, married and unmarried (easily distinguishable by their head-dress) sat their horses behind their masters, or pushed their way to the front to 'root' for their favorite swains, gladiators of the desert for the day. The men and women of Mongolia lead an uneventful, drab and monotonous existence and the visit of the high official and the attendant afternoon of sports and exhibitions came to them with all the magnetic drawing-power of a circus to a small boy.

MONGOLIAN ARCHERS

After the crowd has good-naturedly milled about the grounds for an hour or so—for as Serge and his companions were to find out Mongolians are notoriously lack in being prompt at anything—twenty or thirty Mongolians, husky specimens of the race, armed with big bows and quivers full of clumsy arrows stalked into the space roped off by the red-clad lamas.

They took their position at stances by twos, bowed with extreme gravity to the perspiring Governor in his shady nook, and staidly commenced drawing bow and shooting. First one would send a heavy, iron-tipped arrow twanging into the target, then the next, and the next, until they had all shot five or six times. As each man fired, the scorers, standing perilously near the line of flight of the arrows near the targets, flopped their hands about line awkward pond birds flop their wings and chatted the score each made in a sing-song chant. Little boy lamas, most of them dirty brown little Mongolian Cupids in their birthday clothes, picked up the falling arrows and ran back and forth between the targets and the shooters ninety or a hundred yards distant, their crude, raw side-thonged quivers weighted down by the heavy arrows.

When the competition was over the winner was greeted with shouts for a brief moment, given a handful of little round koumiss cakes, and retired. His brief, flitting minute of fame was over. The crowd moved about chattering—discussing over and over the monotonous question of the fatness of the sheep, the grass on the range, the speed of their horses. Then one of the calvacade's guides, a Mongol from the borderland, joined them. Now the real part of the show—the wrestling and horse racing—was about to begin, he said. Even as he finished they saw the ponies bunching for the parade before the races.

In the next installment of "The Yak-Tail Trail," which appears tomorrow, the vagabonds tell of Mongolian wrestling on the plains, and the thrilling, picturesque races in the home of the grigins who race during the season at Shanghai and Kiangwan.

Discharge As Bankrupt Sought By A. E. Thompson In British Supreme Court

Events Of Piece Goods Crash Of 1920 Reviewed At Hearing At Which Application Is Opposed By Official Receiver

Hearing of an application filed by Mr. Alfred E. Thompson for discharge as a bankrupt opened before Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court yesterday. The application was made by Mr. Thompson's attorney, Mr. R. G. Macdonald, and in the arguments presented was given a review of the financial storm that swept over Shanghai in 1920 when a large number of Chinese piece goods dealers dishonored contracts and involved many foreign hongs in serious losses.

APPLICATION OPPOSED

The application was opposed by the Official Receiver, the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, and Messrs. Morrison and Co. Mr. G. H. Wright represented the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, the trustees and Messrs. Morrison and Co., of England.

Mr. A. L. Dickson, the Official Receiver, opposed the discharge of the bankrupt, on the following grounds.

(1) that his assets were not of the value equivalent to 10 shillings in the pound on the amount of unsecured liabilities.

(2) that his statement of affairs disclosed liabilities amounting to Tls. 448,698.38 and assets amounting to Tls. 29,184.80, leaving a deficiency of Tls. 419,413.38.

The debt admitted by the trustee amounted to Tls. 767,325 and those rejected to Tls. 9,234.19. Of the bankrupt's assets, except for a claim of Tls. 4,438.77 against the bankrupt's estate, the excess of liabilities over assets amounted to at least Tls. 749,825.06, which could only permit of a dividend of one cent on the dollar, being the equivalent of less thas 2⅛d. on the pound sterling.

(3) That he had not kept proper books of account as they did not disclose sufficiently his business transactions and financial position within three years immediately preceding his bankruptcy.

(4) that he had by reason of his extravagance contributed to his bankruptcy.

(5) that he had shown undue preference to one of his creditors.

(6) that he was drawing a salary of Tls. 400 since April 1921 in the employ of his brother in the firm of Elder Thompson and Co. and had failed to make any contribution to the trustee, although he is a member of two local clubs and has been seen driving in motor cars and he has not reduced his style of living.

ANSWERS CHARGES

Mr. Macdonald enunciated the principles that the Court would take into consideration before it decided to withold the discharge from the bankrupt. The law laid down that the debts were to be collected as quickly as possible and the bankrupt was to be given his discharge as soon as it was possible if he was not guilty of gross misconduct or fraud.

He rebutted some of the allegations in the Official Receiver's report. It was true that this bankruptcy was for a very large amount, and counsel submitted that the Court should disregard this fact, and its decision should not be dependent on the fact that the amount involved was a very large one. As civilisation advanced the rigors of the Bankruptcy law were being relaxed, he said.

Lord Halsbury clearly laid it down that a bankrupt should not be fettered nor subjected to any conditions unless there was a commission of a real offence. The bankrupt was merely the victim—and one of the victims—of that very acute trade depression which occurred in Shanghai in 1920. He was left in the lurch by Chinese dealers, and that was why, Mr. Macdonald submitted, Thompson became bankrupt.

There was no question as regards his integrity, nor of his having witheld any information from the time he became bankrupt up till the present moment. It was simply a case of misfortune that might have happened to any merchant in Shanghai. Of proof of debts of Tls. 767,000 odd that was referred to by the Official Receiver, one claim alone—that of Morrison and Company—absorbed Tls. 700,000 odd.

MORRISON CLAIM

Counsel then went into the history of the claim of Morrison and Company. It was for piece-goods not taken up by Chinese dealers. Thompson returned from England about January, 1920, his capital at that time being about Tls. 50,000. Business was good and exchange high, and he felt fully justified in taking larger orders than he had done in the past.

As a matter of fact he was urged to do so by Morrison and Company. Shortly after his arrival Messrs. Morrison recommended him to buy his Spring, 1921, requirements at once. The reasons given: strikes, labor conditions generally and rising prices of commodities. The consequence was that Thompson bought from them goods to the value of approximately £200,000, and these goods were for delivery between September, 1920 and March, 1921.

About June, 1920, there were signs of nervousness in the business world of Shanghai and on June 11, 1920 Thompson cabled to Morrison and Company in London in the following terms: "All dealers desire that everything for September shipment or earlier be cancelled. This general. If this is not done whole Shanghai likely to be very seriously involved. Consult with the China Association. Do what you can to relieve the situation."

In August, 1920, Mr. Birch representing Morrison and Company came to Shanghai and there was a discussion between him and the bankrupt. Thompson suggested that exchange should be settled and it stood then at six shillings. If the exchange had been settled at that time the loss under this claim could be just a little over half. Birch suggested to Thompson at that time that the contracts of the Chinese dealers should be sent to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank to be shroffed by them, and this was done. The result of this was that 50 percent of the orders were classed under "A," 30 percent "B" and some 20 percent "C" class.

SAW STORM COMING

If any merchant took contracts to the Bank and obtained that percentage, Mr. Macdonald remarked, he would be very satisfied indeed. The bankrupt was very prophetic, for in June he had foreseen things. In June the Chinese dealers were coming to the Shanghai hongs and saying "More better cancel." After a couple of months it was "Must cancel," while a couple of months after this, before the Chinese New Year to be precise, dealers were flying, and the market collapsed entirely.

The whole of this large amount owing to Morrison and Co. was simply a loss in respect of goods which were not taken up by the Chinese dealers. Apart from that the loss was aggravated by the failure to settle exchange in August, 1920. Whether Thompson or Morrison and Co. were responsible for it it would be left to the Court to decide. If the bankrupt, Mr. Macdonald submitted, it was an error of judgment which anybody was capable of committing.

Referring to the preference shown to one of the creditors, counsel admitted that it was so, but said that technically there was no preference. The facts were that the bankrupt owed the Foo Shing Flour Mills Tls. 15,000 on December 31, 1920. In 1918 he sold to Morrison some flour and enclosed a contract with the Foo Shing Company. They declined to take up the flour and Thompson settled the matter with the Foo Shing Flour Mills with a total loss of Tls. 36,000. He paid Tls. 10,000 and that left a balance of Tls. 26,000 in 1918, and agreed to pay Tls. 5,000 a year towards the balance. The balance still unpaid on December 31, 1920 was Tls. 16,000. Tls. 5,000 was actually paid on December 31, 1920 and a letter was written demanding payment. Two more letters were written demanding payment and the bankrupt on March 31 paid Tls. 1,500, seeing at that time no wrong in it, for paying a very unfortunate creditor a very small sum. Round about the same time he paid Tls. 10,000 to Messrs. Morrison and Co. Why should the payment of Tls. 1,500 to the Foo Shing Flour Company be selected as undue preference, counsel argued. When Morrison and Co. received from the bankrupt Tls. 10,000 when the bankrupt paid the flour company he had not the faintest idea that he was doing anything that was wrong or giving any preference. If for a moment, Mr. Macdonald submitted, the Court thought that the deed was such as to prevent the bankrupt getting his discharge counsel had no doubt that the bankrupt's relatives would pay that amount to the estate, if that was a ground against his discharge, forthwith.

OTHER CHARGES

Dealing with the other charges of the Official Receiver, Mr. Macdonald said they had no substance at all. As regards the allegation that the bankrupt did not keep proper books, counsel mentioned that Thompson had three departments—piece goods, engineering and exports, and there were separate ledgers for each department so that the position of each could be known easily. Mr. Turner, of a firm of local chartered accountants admitted in his report that Thompson did keep those books properly and then went in his report into a lot of details.

In the examination of any books, counsel said, it was necessary to ask for information on a variety of subjects. Thompson was asked for information by Seth on four or five occasions and this was tendered. As regards extravagance of living which the Official Receiver charged the bankrupt with, Mr. Macdonald submitted that the term "extravagance" was an abuse of language. In fact the bankrupt had been assiduously and consistently economical. When he started his firm in 1916 he drew Tls. 600 a month from the business, and was a married man with no children and only 30 years old. In about three years preceding his bankruptcy in addition to the Tls. 600 he drew in all about Tls. 4,000 from his business.

Between 1915 and his bankruptcy he purchased a house for Tls. 18,000, which was of course part of his assets. As for the profits each year the bankrupt put it into the business in order to increase it.

PAYMENT NOT ASKED

Replying to the charge that the bankrupt was working for his brother on a salary of Tls. 400 a month and was driving in motor cars, Mr. Macdonald said that the bankrupt admitted same, and also was a member of two clubs. Counsel submitted that he did not see how this could operate on the mind of the Court that the bankrupt's discharge should be suspended or refused. On the point that nothing had been paid to the Trustee, Mr. Macdonald said the Trustee had asked for nothing, and even if he did ask there would be nothing to pay out of Tls. 400 a month, which amount was necessary for the upkeep for the bankrupt and his wife.

The Judge: But I have to consider that a man who has a wife's estate does require Tls. 400 a month.

Mr. Macdonald said there was no shadow of ground for any punitive measures. The bankrupt had been punished enough and more than enough and there was nothing in his acts for which he should be punished. There would be no benefit to the creditors to suspend his discharge. It would be simply a punitive measure with no benefit to the community, and to do so would be to oppose the modern principles of Bankruptcy Act. The bankrupt, Mr. Macdonald argued, should be allowed to start afresh and he should be allowed some incentive to further industry and further enterprise. It would be absolutely futile in view of the heavy liabilities to impose the modest payments of Tls. 200 or Tls. 500 a month.

The Judge: I have other methods of punishment. I have to consider whether he is a reliable man for the purpose of trading.

Mr. Macdonald: Yes. The only consideration would be whether he was guilty of misdemeanor. Possibly that payment of Tls. 1,500 may be taken as an offence. Apart from that there is no reason for postponing his discharge.

The Judge: The creditors are the people I would have to consult first of all.

DENIES EXTRAVAGANCE

In reply to questions by Mr. A. L. Dickson, the Official Receiver, the bankrupt stated that every month he struck a trial balance, and these were handed to Mr. Seth. From the trial balances a balance sheet could be made. A bookkeeper, Mr. Levy, kept his books. The books were audited up till December 31, 1920. His present salary was Tls. 500. He was six months ago drawing Tls. 400, and was in the employ of his brother in Eldred Wilfred and Co. as manager. His wife had a small business and he drove her car, the upkeep of which was paid by her. He belonged to four Clubs, the French Club, Cricket

THERE is a distinguishing feature in the business of the house of HAIG & HAIG. Most Distillers have various brands of varying qualities. HAIG & HAIG have one brand only, and they claim (and the public acclaim) that it is the finest that goes from Scotland.

It is a regrettable fact that all retailers have not the same high standard of commercial honesty, and it is known that cheaper brands are sometimes passed on to the public under the label of houses of high repute.

When you see a genuine bottle of HAIG & HAIG Five Stars Scots Whisky it will be the same fine quality in London, in Lucknow, or in Labrador; in the Langham Hotel, in the G.O.H. at Colombo, and in the best Clubs in Cape Town.

SAH TAKES POST AS CIVIL HEAD OF FUKIEN PROVINCE

According to news which has been received in local Chinese shipping circles, there are as many as 10,000 disbanded soldiers in Fukien who have to be sent back to their homes. Both the Hsinming and the Haian of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Co. have been specially engaged to transport the soldiers to Shanghai whence they will be sent to their homes in the Yangtse valley.

Admiral Sah Chen-ping assumed the post of civil governor of Fukien, Sunday. The Northern troops were utterly routed. Li Hou-chi, the former Tuchun-Civil Governor of Fukien, upon the advice of the Consular Body, has ordered a complete cessation of hostilities on the part of the military and naval forces under his command.

Chen Chiung-ming, the Military Governor of Kwangtung, claims to have already disbanded 30 regiments of troops. He said now that the troops of Li Fook-lum, one of the chief Kwangtung Commanders, have been mobilised at Fukien and his disbanded troops have joined Hsu Tsung-chih, the military expenses have been much decreased, and there is a good chance of putting the financial situation back to a normal condition.

The Durban Dancers

Jack Tar has often been called "The Handy Man," and with a good deal of truth. Those boys from H. M. S. Durban are certainly handy when it comes to guiding the fair sex about to the strains of the sounds that give delight and hurt not.

Last night the Hanbury Institute was the scene of merriment. Scores of those Durban Tars turned out to dance around with the youth and beauty of Shanghai There was a man or so who appeared in civilian clothes but they were not in it when it came to the dancing. In the first place the uniform naturally appealed to the susceptible hearts of the local flappers, and then it was noticeable that those sailor-men knew how to dance.

More than one of the lassies had spent nights and nights at the Carlton and likewise places, but each and every one confessed that they learned new steps when the band struck up the Maxime.

The energy and enthusiasm of the Rev. Hall, the chaplain to the Mission to Seamen, had made an enjoyable evening possible, and there was no two opinions as to the verdict.

Both lassies and lads danced themselves into happiness.

These pleasant little functions, that are to become a weekly institution, would be nothing without the music. Last night it was provided by a volunteer band from the Durban. We hear that it has not been in existence long. All the more credit to bandmaster Rivers, who has educated his men to a pitch that makes dancing a delight. Among his merry men are to be found Messrs Pease, Pugh, Dartison, Cross, Graham, Philpotts and Tennery.

The Durban sails for Chinkiang on Thursday. We will welcome the good ship back as soon as tide and orders allow.

ships and the damage wrought to the German battleship Seidlitz, which, with her bows almost under water still managed to make port. Other photographs, taken after the engagement, showed the effects of shell fire on various ships.

In describing the action Lieut. King-Hall related a number of incidents from the lighter side of the proceedings. He told in one instance of a shell after tearing into a destroyer dropping into her boiler room, where it failed to explode but lay as a grim reminder to the stokers of what was going on above.

A more amusing experience was that of the Sparrowhawk and the Broke, which collided bow on while cruising swiftly about during the night engagement. An acquaintance of the speaker's who was on the bridge of one of the ships found himself, practically uninjured, aboard the other. The captain of one of the two, thinking his own craft about to sink, ordered his men to get aboard the other, which seemed to have chances of remaining afloat. At the same time a similar thought struck a number of the personnel of the boarded boat. With the result that the two ships came into port, each with about a score of the other's crew.

In importance, the speaker said in concluding, the Battle of Jutland ranked as a sea action, in his opinion, with the land battle of the Somme. Had the British force been defeated the Allies' cause was lost. As a result of it the German fleet never again risked a fleet engagement and the navy, aided most nobly by the mercantile marine, was able to cope with the U-boat problem.

Though the losses in major ships were heavier in the British force than in the German, the latter suffered much greater general damage, the speaker said.

Mistakes were made on both sides, Lieut. King-Hall said, but the situation faced was an extraordinary one and both fleets were fighting the first fleet action of modern war. The Germans' biggest mistake was in allowing themselves to be cut off from their base by a superior opposing force, while the greatest British mistake was lay in not realising the precise German movement during the night engagement. The communications plan for the fleet in battle had been most carefully worked out. But they had been worked out under peace conditions, whereas the situation met with in the Jutland battle was an entirely novel and extraordinary one.

Wedding

RENWICK-SCHILLER

A colorful and largely attended social event occurred at the Cathedral yesterday when the marriage—a military ceremony—took place of Mr. F. G. Renwick, late of the King's Own Royal Lancaster Regiment and local representative of Messrs. Collier and Stephenson, and Miss Irene Schiller, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Schiller, of 477 Rue Lafayette.

The ceremony was performed by Dean Symons and Mr. R. C. Young was at the organ. The bride, who wore a charming gown of satin crepe and georgette, embroidered with pearls, and carried a bouquet of white carnations, was attended by Miss Mary Seaborn, who, as maid of honor, wore a gown of white georgette and carried pale pink carnations. Mr. A. G. Hearne acted as best man and a guard of honor was composed of N. C. Os. of "A" Company, British, S. V. C., of which unit Mr. Renwick is a sergeant. Many members of the Corps were in attendance.

The couple passed out of the church beneath an arch of crossed bayonets and a reception was held following the service at the home of the bride's parents. The bride and groom afterward left for Hangchow.

HARRIERS HOLD MEETING, MAKE PLANS FOR SEASON

At the annual meeting of the Shanghai Harriers' Club last night officers were elected for the ensuing year and plans made for the season, which, from all appearances, will be even more successful than last year. The meeting was presided over by Mr. H. D. Rodger, the vice-president.

The officers elected were: President, Sir Edward Pearce; vice-president Mr. H. D. Rodger; Captain cross country team, H. F. L. Wilson; vice-captain, G. Rose; Captain Track team, C. C. Reneman; vice-captain, M. Seredkin; Hon. Secretary, T. McKenna; Hon. Treasurer, J. L. Mears.

Committee: E. Fisher, C. Goodhind, V. Cooke, C. J. Short, G. A. Johanssen, J. A. Laurence, A. J. Maitland, G. A. Drairseidt, E. Lewis, F. H. Watson, F. S. Bridges, G. E. Marshall, K. Staley, J. O. Van Hook, P. S. Hyndman.

The report of the Hon. Secretary, detailing the work of the season, was listened to with great interest by the members. He said:

"Since our last report issued in September 1921, the Club has had a very successful cross-country season, runs taking place each week-end. These runs were well supported by our members, several promising young runners having joined the Club. Wet or fine, the runs took place, not a single run being postponed.

"Several handicaps were run off during the season and these were won by V. Cooke, W. R. Tipton, F. H. Watson and T. Mckenna.

"The annual cross-country race for school-boys held under the auspices of the Club, attracted a record number of entries, there being over 100 starters representing eight schools and colleges. The American school furnished not only the winning team, but also the individual winner in Oliver Caldwell.

"Our Annual Sports took place on the Hongkew Park Track, and it is pleasing to record that all the events were won by our members including the three Open Shanghai Championships, the 100, 220 and 880 yards. Our Club 'Champion, George Rose, showed some splendid running at this meeting, winning both the Students Mile Championship and also the Open Mile Handicap from a back mark.

"Congratulations are due to M. Seredkin 100 yards, G. E. Marshall 220 yards, C. C. Reneman 440 and 880, as they won these Shanghai Championships in fine style. It is noteworthy to see our Club Captain winning two Championships in one day competing against the young and capable runners. By winning the 220 and 880 events for the second year in succession, Messrs. Marshall and Reneman make the silver cups offered for these events their own property.

"George Rose once again showed his superior running powers by winning the Club's 8 mile championship in convincing style being followed home by that most improved runner , J. L. Mears.

"Mr. Mears was easily first in the team racing during the season and our most consistent performer.

"It is the hope of the Club to arrange a big Athletic meeting next Spring, and with a strong Committee this should be possible. and with this in view, the support of all our members is asked for.

"During the present cross-country season, we hope to take only short runs at the beginning of the season of the slow order. It has also been suggested that some new country be taken in. I have been promised the support of several old cross-country runners who will map out real new cross-country courses with some interesting paper-chases during the season. It is pleasing to note that a number of new men have approached me with the idea of turning out in the opening runs. In these young men we have the making of a first class cross-country team.

"Our Club members greatly appreciated the kindness extended to them by Mr. W. W. Bartlett. the Principal of the American School, in allowing them the free use of the premises on Saturday afternoons, also the Physical Director of the School, Mr. J. O. Van Hook for the very able assistance during the season. We thank them very much for all they have done for our members.

"My cordial thanks are due to the President, Vice-President, Hon. Chairman, Committee and members for the kind support they have accorded me during the year."

The prize winners during the season of 1921-22 were as follows:

100 Yards Handicap.—1st F. H. Watson, 2nd J. Kabelitz, 3rd G. E. Marshall.

1 Mile Handicap.—1st W. R. Tipton, 2nd H. Hutchison, 3rd T. Madar.

3 Miles Cross-Country Handicap.—1st V. Cooke, 2nd J. E. Fisher, 3rd H. Waters.

8 Miles Cross-Country Handicap.—1st T. McKenna, 2nd J. L. Mears, 3rd J. O. Van Hook.

Club 8 Miles Championship.—1st G. Rose, 2nd J. L. Mears, 3rd J. O. Van Hook.

BULL FIGHTING IN MEXICO IS GIVING WAY TO BASEBALL

Rumors that baseball is supplanting bullfighting as a sport in the hearts of the Mexicans are substantiated in a report to the Department of Commerce at Washington from American Consul James B. Stewart at Chihuahua.

"Last Sunday's game," the report said, "was witnessed by nearly 5,000 spectators, an attendance seldom if ever registered at the local ring in the palmy days of bull-fighting."

The Consul says the popularity of the American national pastime in the Chibuahua district has necessitated the enlargement of the ball grounds, constructed only last spring, "and even with the additional space," he adds, "there is usually an overflow crowd of at least 2,000.

"If it is true that trade and influence follow the flag," it is equally true, in the opinion of the reporting Consul, "that they follow the 'national sport,' and no better means can be found to tear down the barriers of national prejudices and advance American prestige and commerce in Mexico than by the encouragement of baseball, a sport the 'Americanism' of which is undisputed.

"Happily, in this respect the State Government is lending its active support to the advancement of the game. At the recent opening of a new park the Governor of the State threw out the first ball and an eighty-piece military band furnished the music for the occasion.

"Quite naturally," the report concludes,, "the development of baseball in this territory has far more than sentimental value. It means more business not only in balls and bats and peanuts and popcorn but in a very wide range of American goods."

J. Otani Wins Amateur Golf Title In Japan

J. Otani won the amateur golf championship of Japan at Kobe last week in an 18-hole play-off with C. G. Osborne after the two Tokio entries in the tournament had tied for first place with a score of 152. In the play-off Otani made the round in 77, while Osborne, after breaking a driving iron and a mashie, scored in 79.

Osborne took the lead in the tournament in the morning, but Otani on the second round evened the count, giving a tie at 152 for the 36 holes. Otani insisted on forfeiting to Osborne as his affairs demanded his presence in Tokio but Osborne refused to agree to this, and, with the consent of the rules committee, it was arranged to secure a decision by playing 18 holes in the afternoon. Osborne led by a narrow margin in the play-off until he broke two clubs near the end of the round.

Texas Walker, noted American rifle shot, who is heading an all star company of his own on a tour of the world is to open an engagement at the Olympic theater on Saturday. Advance notices of the performance indicate that it is a dramatic novelty of exceptional merit.

In additional to fancy and hair-raising rifle shooting by Texas Walker, details of the program include a sketch by Guadaleup Warne and her cowboys called "A day on the Three Cross Ranch," buck and wing dancer and Ernest Long in comedy impersonations and tumbling. An outstanding feature of the production is the music of Texas Walker's cowboy jazz band.

NOVEL GOWN TO BE SEEN HERE IN FRAWLEY SHOW

Have you ever heard of a 'fade in—fade out' gown? A 'radium dress,' if you please! If not you'll get to see Adele Blood wear this startling creation in "Smilin' Thru," the opening bill of the T. Daniel Frawley Company at the Olympic Theater, November 16.

It was with difficulty that Miss Blood arranged the importation into the Orient of the 'fade in—fade out' gown. Flo Ziegfeld of 'Follies' fame and Irving Berlin, the composer of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and incidentally recently turned theater magnate (owner of the ultra-smart Music Box) have a sort of monopoly on the 'radium gown.' Flo features it in his this year's "Follies" while Mr Berlin continues to startle even blase New Yorkers with his chorus at the Music Box gowned in "fade in—fade out" costumes.

Neither Mr. Ziegfeld nor Mr. Berlin liked the idea Adele Blood had 'under her bonnet' to bring to the Orient a replica, as it were, of the 'fade in—fade out' gown. They much preferred to have the novelty remain on the New York stage for a while longer without duplicates. But Miss Blood decided to make the popular Flo and Irving give in and she did.

To tell the secret of how this unique 'radiolite' effect is produced on the costume Miss Blood will wear in one scene in "Smilin' Thru" would be unfair to first-nighters Suffice it to say that the effect produced is of the 'knock 'em cold' variety. Miss Blood obtained permission to have a 'radium gown' made for use on her Oriental tour after going through a great deal of 'red tape.'

As 'Kathleen,' the bride, in Allan Langdon Martin's fantastic comedy-drama Adele Blood will be at her very best. This charming play is the selfsame one which ran for two years at the New York Republic theater. The Honolulu Star Bulletin and Daily Advertiser of September 23 contain most complimentary accounts of the reception of Miss Blood there in "Smilin' Thru."

Swansong Tone Seen In Premier's Manchester Speech

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 16.—Although Mr. Lloyd George, to the surprise of political experts, did not give a hint as to the date of the election, the swansong tone of his peroration is regarded as indicating the possibility of his resigning before the election, leaving Mr. Austen Chamberlain to form a government and himself free to organise a new party.

The phrase "Britain—Great Britain," it is thought, may be the keynote of a new Imperial Central party.

In the course of his three speeches on Saturday at Manchester, Salford and Blackpool the Premier referred to the wonderful nature of his welcome as showing that his personal popularity with the masses was not affected by the press attacks and he is expected to make the most of this discovery to inaugurate a Lancashire campaign similar to Gladstone's great Midlothian campaign.

Mr. Asquith's reference to the "notorious mysterious document" was to the appeal to the Dominions issued on September 16.

London, Oct. 16.—Since Mr. Austen Chamberlain's speech on October 13 which was adversely commented upon by the majority of Conservative newspapers which show increasing restlessness with the Conservative support of the Coalition, the political situation has been full of dramatic possibilities.

This has been intensified since Mr. Lloyd George's speech and the talk today is that anything may happen in the next few days.

Mr. Lloyd George returned to London yesterday and dined with Mr. Winston Churchill who speaks at Bristol tomorrow when he may indicate the next step in Mr. Lloyd George's plans. Mr. Lloyd George before going to the country today conferred with Mr. Churchill, Earl Balfour, Lord Birkenhead and Sir Robert Horne.

His next political speech has been fixed for the North of England on October 21.

Mr. Chamberlain came to London today to meet his Conservative colleagues to decide whether they will join Mr. Lloyd George in going to the country as a Coalition.

The decision at this meeting will settle the question whether the election will be fought as Coalition versus Labor or as a triangular contest between Conservatives, Liberals and Labor.

The Manchester Guardian says that Mr. Lloyd George is contemplating a period of retirement from office as the leader of a new combination of parties or even a new party.

Paris Press Shows Great Resentment

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 16.—Mr. Lloyd George's speech is angrily commented upon in the French newspapers which all deny that the maintenance of peace in the Near East was the result of British threats to the Turks. They contend that French diplomacy was solely responsible for it.

The Figaro says that never was the truth more audaciously travestied and never has a minister for the purposes of internal policy more greatly slandered the Allied Nations.

The Petit Parisien declares it was French and Italian pacific action that brought about peace but it is useless to enter into polemics.

The Matin says that the testimony of General Sir Charles Harington to French co-operation is as precious as Mr. Lloyd George's declarations are valueless.

Le Journal states it is our duty to inform Mr. Lloyd George that if he enters the peace conference in the frame of mind he showed at Manchester he must bear the responsibility of the inevitable conflicts.

London, Oct. 16—The Manchester Guardian declares that Mr. Lloyd George's direction is at present apparently towards Radical Labor and if the election results give him an opening he may turn that way.

A meeting of the Unionist members of the House of Commons has been convoked for October 19. It is a similar gathering to that which elected Mr. Austen Chamberlain to be Unionist Leader in the House of Commons.

THE ROMANCE OF A WALLFLOWER!—A POWERFUL DRAMA!

"SHELTERED DAUGHTERS"

Jenny was a sheltered daughter, all right. Her dear old Dad wouldn't even let her read the newspapers, for fear she would learn that there were such things as evil and scandal in the world! And then one day Jenny, the sheltered daughter, was in a front-page story, a scandal, and an international one at that! Of course, her part in the affair was quite an innocent one, but Dad concluded that he couldn't be responsible for her any longer, and so turned her over, with his blessing, to the nicest man in the world, who was glad to assume the burden of keeping Jenny safe.

"WAY DOWN EAST"

Based on Wm A. Brady's Famous Play by Lottie Blair Parker and Jos. R. Grismer

It's a simple story of plain folks—the greatest of all Griffith plays—uncommonly well done and with breath-taking effect.

Every audience has set spellbound through the unfolding of this great production.

With its humaneness and its story of unusual love, its thrills and its pathos, it stands alone in the field of spectacular pictures.

The all star cast which carries out the story quite eclipses any cast that ever appeared in this piece on the speaking stage.

THOMPSON SUIT IN BRITISH COURT

Club, Golf Club and the Rowing Club. He denied he was extravagant and said he never signed chits, and used these Clubs in a normal way.

Have you been attempting to reduce your liabilities?—I have been trying to get my discharge.

The main reason for your bankruptcy is that the Chinese dealers ran away?—The principal cause but not the only. There was also a loss of Tls. 75,000 with a firm in San Francisco as they refused to take up goods. I filed a claim in San Francisco and they filed a counter-claim. The first time I knew I was bankrupt was on November 22, 1920.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wright, the bankrupt said that with regard to the debt in San Francisco he believed the firm not to be an honorable firm.

They had given no particular reason for not paying. Have you forgotten that in your public examination an affidavit had been filed in San Francisco saying that you had misrepresented things and that you were not a skin expert and knew nothing about the business?—That is so.

It is going a long way to say the firm is not honorable?—It is a serious thing to file an affidavit making allegations of that character if they have no substance at all. You will say there is no substance at all for those allegations?—No substance at all.

Will you tell me why Mr. Turner should in his report say that your books were unintelligible?—Even an expert accountant would require explanation in auditing books. I told him that if he wanted information I would be pleased to give it to him. He did not ask me to come again and did not ask for any further information.

Will you agree that a chartered accountant will be able to inspect ordinary books of business?—Not without getting information for a complete report. There was no reason for the trustee to guess as I was there to give information.

Do you suggest that Morrison's did not do their very best to get these contracts cancelled?—I am absolutely in the dark as to what they did.

Did not Morrison's send you a cable in July, 1920 urging you to come to an arrangement regarding the cancellation? You cabled them paying ten percent on the orders difference, and they asked you to raise it 2½ percent and give them a free hand?—Yes.

Did they not tell you that the manufacturers would not cancel and that the goods were made specially?—I knew in some cases the goods were not made.

How did you know?—From the manufacturers.

Have you any letter or telegram?—In one case the manufacturer's representative said when he was here that it would take a long time to make these goods. Manufacturers did not make goods and keep them in stock for six months before shipping them.

The Judge: I do not know how long piece goods take to make.

On February 26 you wrote to Morrison's and said that your business was done with the best dealers in town?—Yes.

And you knew that that was not correct?—Yes.

And you were a newcomer in Shanghai in piece goods. Do you suggest that you could get a good clientele in such a short space of time?—I had dealers from Jardine's. Practically every dealer in Shanghai cleared off and very few remained.

Do you really suggest that most of the best dealers had cleared out?—I do. It was generally understood in Shanghai that there were very few Chinese in Shanghai who did not suffer loss. If a dealer did not disappear he arranged with the foreign firm for a settlement.

According to you Shanghai is bereft of piece goods dealers?—Some of them have come back.

What profits did you make?—In 1916 I made Tls. 10,000, in 1917 about Tls. 15,000, in 1918 about Tls. 10,000 and in 1919 it was perhaps about Tls. 40,000.

The bankrupt stated in further questions put to him by Mr. Wright that he had received an offer from Mr. Seth on April 7 the acceptance of which would mean a withdrawal of the objection to his application for discharge. The proposal contained in that letter was that the bankrupt would be allowed to trade again, but would have to pay 50 percent of his income to the creditor. Up to a profit of Tls. 2,000 the creditors would receive nothing. On a profit of Tls. 10,000 the bankrupt would receive Tls. 5,000 and the balance would go to the creditors. The bankrupt said he considered this unreasonable, for supposing he would make Tls. 20,000 it would mean 35 years before he wined out his liabilities.

The Judge: Did you make any other suggestion?—I have made one without prejudice.

The hearing was adjourned till this morning.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 17, 1922
Spot bar silver was down 5-16 and forward ⅜d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 67¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged at 444. The only charge in our official quotations here today was a rise in the Franc rate to 980.

Our market at the opening was inclined to be weak, business in Sterling being done at 3-3 ½ for October, November, December and in Gold Dollars at 73¼.

However, banks generally were good sellers at these rates and speculators who at the opening had been inclined to buy, became themselves sellers and as banks were not anxious buyers the market firmed up considerably and at the Tiffin interval there were sellers of Sterling at 3-4 for all deliveries up to January, and of Gold Dollars at 74 for October-November and 74⅛ for December January.

There were buyers at about ⅛d. and ⅛ point above these rates. In the afternoon the market was a shade easier, business in Sterling at one time being done as low as 3s. 3¾d, and in Gold Dollars at 73½. There were good sellers at these rates and the market steadied up again closing with sellers of Sterling at 3s.3⅞d. for any delivery to January and of Gold Dollars at 73¾ with buyers at ¾ and 74 respectively.

There were sellers of Yen at 65¼ for this year's delivery and buyers at 65.

Banks were quoting today for Sterling bills, 3s. 4¾d. Gold Dollar bills 75½ and for Franc bills, 1010.

China sold silver again in London yesterday and India bought. The market is reported as closing uncertain. New York report, their market as steady with buyers holding back.

Harding Says U. S. Wishes To Help

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 16.—In a letter to Mr. Mondell, a leader of Congress, President Harding declared that the flexibility of the new Tariff would enable the Administration to adjust duties to shifting economic relations, enabling the United States to encourage foreign trade.

He denied the aloofness of the United States from the rest of the world. He said:

"We wish to be helpful, neighborly and useful. To protect ourselves first and then to use the strength accruing through that policy for the general welfare of mankind is our sincere purpose."

King And Queen Of Rumania Crowned

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 16.—A message from Alba Julia states that the King and Queen of Rumania were crowned today amid great pomp.

The traditional ceremonial service was held in a cathedral specially built for the occasion.

The most distinguished Rumanians, foreign missions and representatives attended, including the Duke of York.

The coronation itself took place outside the cathedral where an altar was erected surrounded by burning candles. A dead silence succeeded the blare of trumpets, clanging of bells and booming of guns as the Patriarch crowned their Majesties.

The party afterwards returned to the capital where the King and the Princes rode on horseback in an imposing procession.

U. S. Bank Conditions

IN the economic flux funds flow alternately into trade and banks. The Controller's analysis of the returns of the national banks in the United States shows that the tide is turning, comments the New York Times. A year ago bank resources were "frozen" and could be thawed out only by the liquidation of loans, the effect showing in the growth of bank resources. They are now $188,000,000 greater than on June 30, 1921, and $529,000,000 greater than at the call of last May. It is plain that the process went on most rapidly in recent months, and there are signs that the trade demand is reviving. Loans and discounts are $65,000,000 greater than last May, but are still $755,000,000 below June, 1921. During the quietness of trade the banks put their funds temporarily into securities, and they now hold $2,285,459,000 of Treasury issues, an increase in a year amounting to $265,962,000. The banks hold $2,277,666,000 of other securities, and an excess of reserves. As deposits are largely in excess of loans it is doubly clear that the banks are accommodating their customers with their own resources, and that with the capacity of rediscount there are no reasonable demands of business which the banks are not in a position to meet.

This is fortunate, for there are indications that trade will need more funds than it has recently used. The increases of wages will make materials more costly, and the crops must be moved. Mining, which ought to have been continuous, must make up the shortage due to months of idleness. There is a deficiency of 325,000,000 yards of cotton fabrics due to the textile strikes. The shortage of building construction is well known. Railway construction is behind. Funds must be found to pay taxes. With so much "money," meaning credit capacity, in sight the country will not go on to short commons for necessities.

Nobody buys on a falling market for more than immediate needs. Once the conviction spreads that it is possible to buy without having goods fall in value after purchase, there will be a demand for replenishment of exhausted reserves of almost everything. Such processes of production are entitled to bank consideration above those seeking to use credit to buy for price enhancement instead of increase of goods. The banks have wisely refused to accommodate reckless speculators, and therefore are in all the better position to serve revival of production and distribution.

Facts About Arsenic Poisoning

The dreadful recent fatalities resulting from arsenic-poisoned pastry eaten in a New York restaurant make particularly pertinent the remarks delivered by Sir William Wilcox before a meeting of the Medico-Legal Society of London on the history of the criminal use of the poison, advances in knowledge about its proper medical use, and the symptoms resulting from its presence in the human system. The Lancet reports the following interesting points made by Sir William:

Arsenic was one of the commonest and oldest known poisons; it was believed to have been discovered in the third century. Everybody knew of its poisonous properties, and preparations of it were easily accessible. It was almost tasteless and could be introduced into food without fear of it being detected by those taking it. As the symptoms following closely simulated those of disease, it had been a favorite homicidal poison for centuries. Poisoning by arsenic might be homicidal, suicidal, accidental, might follow an attempt to procure abortion, or might result from taking quack remedies. Of 1,000 cases of arsenical poisoning collected between the years 1752 and 1911, 42 percent were homicidal, 23 percent suicidal, 20 percent accidental, 3 percent were cases in which the drug was taken as an abortifacient, and in 10 percent the motive was not ascertained. But these figures could not express the true proportions, as the suicidal and accidental cases were not usually reported.

For criminal purposes the most common preparation used was arsenious oxide, a white, inodorous powder, almost tasteless, and slightly soluble in water, and it could be added to food without fear of detection. It was required to be colored by soot or indigo before being sold, but sometimes this was not carried out. The poison could be obtained from wholesale firms for laboratory purposes almost without restriction, and it was available to all and sundry who used or passed in and out of such laboratories—a source of possible supply not usually paid attention to.

Arsenious oxide was sold in combination with sodium hydrate or carbonate as weed-killer; it might be a strong solution of sodium arsenite. The liquid preparation was usually colored by the addition of an aniline dye, such as fluorescine. "Ureka" weed-killer contained 60 percent arsenious acid. It was very soluble in water, and formed a pinkish-red solution, which was decolorised by acids. In the case of Rex versus Bingham, 1911, three fatal cases of arsenic poisoning were inquired into, and they were found to have been due to weed-killer. Liquid preparations of arsenic were used to kill insects which infected and destroyed the strength of timber, and as these were not colored there was danger of unwitting poisoning. A hut which had been so treated was found to exude a white powder which was found to be arsenic. Sheep dips also contained this poison. Arsenate of lead solutions for spraying fruit were also a potential danger.

Arsenic has been described as an irritant poison, but death from it was not directly due to its irritant effects on the gastro-intestinal tract; it was a very powerful tissue poison, and the fatal result was due to its toxic effect on the important organs of the body—heart, kidneys, liver in particular. The symptoms of arsenical poisoning varied a good deal as to their sequence and the period of their onset, hence no rigid rule could be stated. A toxic dose of arsenic might in one person cause vomiting first and diarrhoea afterward, but in another the order might be reversed. Some might complain of a burning in the throat and cramps in the legs, while in others these might be absent though a similar dose had been taken. In some criminal cases a succession of sub-lethal doses had been given, each definitely poisonous; here the symptoms which would be expected to follow one large dose would be somewhat masked by the symptoms of subacute or chronic poisoning. When one or two grains were taken by the mouth nausea was usually the first result, and it might occur within a few minutes of taking the poison. The time of onset of the symptoms depended on the state of the stomach when the poison was taken. If it was empty, symptoms would quickly follow; if a meal had just been taken, or if the arsenic was in a solid form, symptoms would be delayed.

Sir William Wilcox related one case in which 180 grains were accidentally taken in milk. Diarrhoea and purging followed, and these symptoms were treated, so that death was postponed until three and a half months after the arsenic was taken, showing that the main action had been that of a protoplasmic poison. A worker in the laboratory of a weed-killer firm sometimes had diarrhoea and vomiting at night, no doubt due to the inhalation of minute quantities of arsenic throughout the day. As arsenic was not a corrosive poison it was difficult to account for burning in the throat, except by reflex action. The vomited material would contain food and mucus, sometimes an admixture of blood; occasionally it was yellow, owing to the presence of bile. Pain and tenderness in the abdomen were followed by a profuse evacuation; the stools were watery and might contain small quantities of mucus and blood.

In the early stages the tongue was furred, and later might have a silvery appearance. After repeated administration of the poison sores might appear on the lips. The vomiting and diarrhoea would produce great thirst, and the face might become so pinched looking that there was some resemblance to a case of cholera. One of the earliest and most constant symptoms was a weak and rapid pulse.

A single dose of 2 grains of arsenious exide had caused death in a healthy adult, and this was usually accepted as a possible fatal dose. It was common for much larger doses to be taken and recovery to occur, due no doubt to the rapid elimination of the poison by vomiting and diarrhoea. A certain quantity of arsenic if given in solution and spread over a short period in its administration was much more likely to prove fatal than the same amount taken in one dose. It was impossible to state what was the fatal period, as so many factors influenced it. Usually the end came in three days, but in a case of repeated small doses, death might be postponed for many days. In one case death occurred twenty minutes after taking a large dose, whereas in another, after a dose estimated at 180 grains, death did not occur for three and a half months.

Something To Think About

BY BRUNO LESSING

The American Bible Society announces that, for the first time in ten years, it is able to sell a booklet containing the Gospel of St. John for one cent. This booklet contains 64 pages of printed matter. Owing to the high cost of paper and labor during the war, the former price of this publication was three cents. And now it is one cent.

For one cent every human being who can read the English language can come into possession of one of the finest and most uplifting of all the writings of the world's literature. What I am wondering about is how many will buy it, how many will read it and how many will profit by it?

"A new commandment, I give unto you, That ye love one another."

That's from the Gospel of St. John. It was written for the French, the British, the Germans, the Austrians, the Czechoslovakians, the Russians and the Poles, as well as for Americans and the old residents of the Holy Land.

Oh, how they love one another! And now it costs only one cent!

"And Jesus said unto her: Neither do I condemn thee: go and sin no more."

You know that, don't you—the story of Mary Magdalen? Well, that's in the Gospel of St. John, too.

And you know, too, how the world pities and helps and cherishes a fallen sister—particularly her own sex. It almost seems as if most people had bought a copy of this booklet at the three cent price, doesn't it? And now it only costs one cent—one-tenth of a dime. Ought to spread all over the world. Yes?

"If ye love me, keep my commandment."

That's from the Gospel of St. John, too. It was probably owing to the high cost—three cents—that the nations of the earth were in ignorance of these commandments and embarked upon the greatest orgy of slaughter the world has ever seen. But now that price is reduced and everybody can buy a copy—the booklet is to be translated into other languages—there will be no further wars.

Is there any faith in any religion left? I do not mean a Saturday or Sunday mumbling of words or ritual on the part of a few thousand individuals, but an overpowering BELIEF that sways nations.

Will the broadcasting of any religious gospel be potent to check the hatred, the greed, the selfishness and the recklessness of all the peoples of the world today?

I am sure that all thinking Americans would be in favor of investing all the billions that Europe owes us in the gospels of the Bible, the Talmud, the Koran or the Zend Avesta if such an end could be achieved.

"Light Waves" Are Not Light

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority On Subjects Of Scientific Interest

"Does the sun light up the surface of the planets only, or does it light the whole solar system? If it lights the surfaces only is it dark between the sun and the planets, or if it lights the whole solar system, why is it we do not see the sun's light at night?—J. T. P., Lodi, N. J."

Many persons appear to be puzzled by questions similar to yours concerning the nature of the sun's light. The source of the confusion is the mistaken notion that light leaves the sun as light, whereas, in fact, what comes off the sun is only radiant energy (in itself invisible) which produces the effect, or appearance of light when it enters direct into our eyes and affects the nerves of vision.

This radiant energy is conceived to be conveyed by electromagnetic disturbances in the suppositious medium called the ether, and these disturbances seem to manifest themselves after the manner of vibratory waves, whence the term "light-waves."

But the "light-waves" are not themselves light—they merely cause the sensation of light, as above explained. Accompanying them are other "waves" of invisible energy which upon encountering suitable objects produce the sensation called heat. But the "heat-waves" are no more, in themselves, heat than the light-waves are light.

Consequently it is not strictly true to say that the sun sends off light and heat, though it is very convenient to speak in that way, provided that both speaker and hearer understand exactly what underlies this convenient phrase.

Now suppose you are looking direct at the sun; then its waves of energy enter your eyes and produce the effect called light. Next, suppose that, in the daytime, you look away from the sun, shading your eyes from its direct rays; still you see "light," because the sun's rays are reflected, though with subdued energy, from the air and the clouds and the landscape around you, and entering your eyes from all directions, produce the effect of light.

But let it be night. The sun is now hidden from your sight behind the earth, and its rays are no longer reflected from the air and the landscape. Except for the stars, it would be totally dark, because there is no radiant energy from the sun entering into your eyes, either directly or by reflection, to cause the sensation of light.

If, however, the moon happens to be in such a position as to be within your range of vision, you will see her shining brightly in the midst of the dark sky, because her surface catches and reflects the sunlight that passes by the edges of the earth all around you.

So, too, if any of the large planets, such as Jupiter, is within range, it will appear in like manner lighted by the sun's rays which pass the earth. But you can detect no trace of the sun's rays as they pass through the ether between the sun and the moon or the planets. They only become visible as light, after they have been caused, by reflection, to enter direct into your eyes.

In the ether there is nothing to reflect the rays; consequently the ether is not lighted up by the passage through it of the solar radiation. The reason why the earth's atmosphere is lighted up by the sun's rays when the sun is above the horizon is that the air is a material gas, or mixture of gases, capable of partially reflecting the waves of radiant energy.

Suppose that you could stand on the moon and look at the sun and the earth. There is no perceptible air on the moon, and so there would be no general illumination of the sky as there is on the earth by day, but the sky would appear perfectly black, though thickly sprinkled with dazzling bright stars.

The earth would hang in the sky, among the stars, like an immense moon, visible by its reflection of the sun's rays, and yet as you glanced along the space between the sun and the earth you would perceive no trace of the rays that would be passing there, because, as before explained, they are not in themselves visible, and there is nothing in the ether to refect them and so turn them into your eyes, where, if so turned, they would cause the sensation of light.

But let any solid body flying through space suddenly come into the dark abyss between the sun and the earth, and to you, standing on the moon, it would be visible, and light would appear to spring from it, simply because it would deflect the passing solar rays to your eyes, upon entering which these rays would be transformed into light.

The stars do not produce a general illumination of the atmosphere at night because owing to their immense distance, the effect of their radiation is so far reduced that we hardly notice it by reflection from the air.

In The U. S. Court For China

Mr. J. S. Ford is not entitled to damages in lieu of travel expenses from Tientsin and Shanghai to the United States from the American Trading Company because he twice failed to take advantage of the defendant company's offer and even now is unprepared to leave China, according to a decision handed down in the United States Court for China at Tientsin by Judge Charles S. Lobingier.

Mr. Ford sued the American Trading Company for transportation expenses and damages alleging that they had committed a breach of contract. Judge Logingier's judgment is as follows:

Syllabus (by the Court)

1.—Employment: Transportation expenses: A contract providing that "passage to America . . . will be paid" is not broken where the employer purchases the necessary steamship and connecting railway tickets and gives the employe an order to another of its China offices for reimbursement for the railway journey to port of departure.

2.—Id: Id: Such a contract is not an undertaking to furnish the employe with passage money but merely to pay the expenses of the journey which he must prepare to make before he is entitled to avail himself of the provision.

Messrs. Ross & Lawrence, by Mr. Simmang, for the plaintiff; Richard T. Evans, Esquire, for the defendant.

Lobingier, J:

This is an action by a former employe to recover transportation expenses and damages for withholding them under a contract which provided that in case of cancellation which was authorised, "passage to America for yourself will be paid," etc.

It appears that defendant did purchase plaintiff's transportation from Tientsin, where he was employed, direct to America but that the delivery of the tickets was made conditional upon the signing by plaintiff of an affidavit to the effect that he had no property or papers of the defendant and had not divulged any of its secrets.

The reason for this requirement appears to have been certain statements by plaintiff to the effect that he had such papers and would divulge such information. As this would have been a clear breach of his contract the requirement would seem not to have been an unreasonable one.

At any rate a satisfactory affidavit was eventually made and defendant secured another reservation for plaintiff this time from Shanghai to New York with an order on defendant's Shanghai office for a refund of his railway fare from Tientsin to Shanghai, about Mex. $57.00. It is claimed that defendant committed a breach of its contract by not paying this railway fare in advance. But it will be observed that the contract does not so require "Passage to America for yourself will be paid" is a provision which might conceivably be satisfied at the end of the journey. Such might not have been the understanding of the parties at the time but on this point there is no evidence and under the literal terms of the clause we could hardly hold that defendant had committed an actionable breach by merely leaving plaintiff to wait a couple of days before reimbursement for such a comparatively small portion of his passage money. For it is not suggested that with an order on the Shanghai office of defendant plaintiff was in any danger of not being reimbursed.

There appear to have been some negotiations between the parties relative to sending him home by way of Europe and defendant offered to apply on the expenses of such a journey the amount which would be necessary for direct passage to America. This is all that could be required: the undertaking to provide "passage to America" necessarily meant by the shortest and most direct route.

But even if it were found that defendant had failed in some particular to meet all the requirements of the undertaking we do not think plaintiff could be held to have been damaged because in the settlement he was allowed full salary up to September 15, whereas by his contract he was entitled to only sixty days. Notice of cancellation was given on May 10 so that salary might have been terminated on July 10. Plaintiff also admits having received a bonus of in the neighborhood of one month's salary. Altogether these amounts would seem to cover any damage occasoned by the delay in furnishing transportation had it been due to defendant's fault.

It does not appear that plaintiff is ready at the present time to avail himself of the transportation, and under the doctrine of this Court he must show such readiness. He testifies that even if awarded his transportation and damages he would not be prepared to proceed before the completion of certain work which will require four to five months. Under this admission, and in view of the fact that he is not entitled to damages we do not feel justified in rendering a judgment for the expenses of his transportation. We shall assume that defendant will provide these, according to its contract, as soon as plaintiff shows himself ready to use the transportation; but in case there should be any difficulty about this plaintiff will be allowed to amend his complaint setting forth his own readniess, and defendant's refusal, but in case no such petition is filed within six months this cause will stand dismissed.

By The Court,
Charles S. Lobingier
Judge.
